

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, January 22. 1723.

Tripoli, October 30.

OUR Privateers have taken and brought in here, since the Spring, 12 Italian Vessels; and among them a Genoese Ship reputed worth above 50,000 Crowns, having on board 30 Persons, German Officers, Subalterns, Soldiers, with their Wives and Children. The Dey has declared them all Slaves, pretending to be no Ways concerned in the Peace concluded between the Emperour and the Grand Signior, but has given a French Woman her Liberty who was on board the same Ship. The Maltese Gallies have since taken four of our Corsairs, two Barks, and two Gallies; on board of which were 500 Turks, besides Slaves, whom they have carried to Malta. Advices from Constantinople mention great Preparations carrying on there for the Siege of Malta the next Spring.

Brussels, Jan. 18. On the 14th Instant, the Magistrates of this City presented the Wine of Honour to Prince Don Emanuel of Portugal: It was a Tun of Rhenish, adorned with Laurel, and the Prince's Arms finely gilt and painted, preceded by a Kettle Drum, four City Trumpets, and followed by the Magistrates in their Coaches: A Youth sat upon the Tun, representing Bacchus; it was placed upon a Carriage drawn by four Horses, a Student belonging to the College of Jesuits riding upon each Horse, representing Salvages. It is reported, that his Royal Highness designs to stay here during the Carnival. Some Days past, a Frenchman, who went by the Stile of Marquess de Blanchi, although 'tis said he is only a Peruke-Maker's Son in Paris, was taken into Custody here at the Instances of the Court of France, and conveyed to Treurenberg, of which an Account was immediately transmitted to Paris by an Express: It is reported, that he is accused of counterfeiting Bank Notes to the Value of four Millions, and ruining thereby a great Number of Families.

Hague, Jan. 22. The States of Holland are yet assembled, and 'tis not certain when they intend to adjourn several Domestick Affairs lying still before them unfinished. They have not received a Consent from the small Cities to the Resolution taken for paying the Debts of North-Holland; 'tis said, one of the Conditions of that Consent will be, that the North Hollanders shall unite all the Offices of each City into one; and 'tis probable, that in a little Time it will be demanded that one Office may serve both for South and North Holland. The States General have complained to the Marquess de Monteleone, that the Spanish Men of War in America, have taken in the open Sea, and also upon the Coasts, some Dutch Merchant Ships, and have desired him to write to his Court concerning that Proceeding. It is discoursed, that the States will send another Squadron into the Straights the next Summer.

Paris, Jan. 27. Great Number of Persons are daily soliciting to have a Share in the next Promotions that are to be made at the King's Majority; at which Time, 'tis said, an Arrêt will be published, requiring all the Subjects and Inhabitants of this Kingdom to carry to the several Mints all their Gold and Silver Species to be recoined. . . .

The celebrated Silversmith, who made the first Sun which the King presented at his Coronation to the Cathedral Church at Rheims, had the Honour some Days ago to let the King see 60 Pieces of curious wrought Plate, done by himself for the King of Portugal. The intended Regulation of the Finances which has been a long time endeavoured, meets still with great Difficulties, so that 'tis thought that Work can hardly be accomplished before the King's Majority. It is reported, that an Arrêt of the King's Council of State will shortly be published, expressly enjoying all the Nobility of this Kingdom to deliver the Particulars of their Titles, and Right of Nobility, in six Week's time, to such Commissioners as are to be appointed for that Purpose; 'tis added, that this Affair will bring in large Sums into the King's Coffers. It is reported, that a Mine of Silver is discovered in the Country of Maine, of which Proof has been already made, and 'tis said, that a certain Company has offered the King a considerable Sum, provided his Majesty will secure to them all the Produce of the Mine: But as several Discoveries of this sort have been made heretofore, and have all turn'd to Smoke, 'tis apprehended this may be another of the same kind. Letters from St. Malo, Bren, and other Ports, give an Account of violent Storms that have happened there lately, and that dead Bodies and Pieces of Wrecks are frequently drove upon those Coasts.

Dartmouth, Jan. 18. Sailed the Speedwell for London.

Bristol, Jan. 19. Came in the Deborah and Elizabeth from Jamaica. All the Bristol Ships there in the late Hurricane, were lost; as also those of London, except the Portland and Don Carlos. There is a Pyrate Ship lost on the Grand Camarius, and the Launceston Man of War is failed to take and secure the Men.

Gravesend, Jan. 20. Yesterday passed by the Oravia Merchant and Resolution, from the Canaries; London-Hope, Kent, and Charming Sarah, from the West Indies.

Deal, Jan. 20. Arrived the Pearl Galley from Sevil, and the Continuance from Oporto. A Boat belonging to the Mary, an East-India Ship, with 12 Men on board, coming ashore, was over set; one of them is since dead, another very bad, and a third missing, but the rest were saved.
